MAN SHOT AT EAST BERLIN

Paul Chronister Shoots His Brother-in-Law William C. Leib and is Brought to Gettysburg Jail. Leib Will Recover.

The shooting, which occurred at East Berlin about 11.30 Monday morning, is said to have been brought about by Chronister's discharge from Leib's employ. Chronister bears a bad reputation in his home community and was discharged by Leib about three months ago for drunkenness. He then went to York and secured a position from which he was recently discharged. It is said, for the same cause. He returned to East Berlin, Monday, to prepare his household furniture for shipment to York where he intended to reside. While under the influence of liquor, he met Leib, and shot him.

TUESDAY'S MARKET

Market opened his morning with 51 stalls filled and the assortment of fruits and vegetables displayed around the Centre Square was enough to meet the delectable taste of a king.

The market opened rather strong and buying continued at the opening prices during the first rush of business. Select peaches were in abundance and sold for $2.15 per bushel; pears 1.00 per bushel; plums 20c per peck; apples 15c per peck; tomatoes 20c per peck; string beans 20c per peck; lima beans 10c per quart; corn 10c per doz; huckleberries 10c per quart. Spring chicken was offered this morning at 15c per lb. live weight.

FINAL EFFORT TO GET CONVENTION

Committee Working Hard to Secure Church of the Brethren Convention. Local People are Subscribing Generously.

The committee in charge of the subscriptions for the conference of the Church of the Brethren has been making a final whirlwind campaign during the past two days. Responses in almost every case have been generous. Business people of town, with very few exceptions, seem to realize the importance of securing this conference which is expected to bring more than thirty thousand people to Gettysburg. It will be remembered that nine thousand dollars is the amount designated as necessary for the entertainment of the visitors.

While it was recognized as a practical impossibility for the residents of town to subscribe the total amount, the local committee was given to understand during an interview with officials of the rail roads running into town that they would be responsible for two thirds of this amount. Up to the time of going to press the three thousand dollars has been practically assured. Several merchants from whom assistance is expected are out of town, but they will be approached before the committee leaves for York Wednesday morning to confer with the delegates of the Church of the Brethren elected to decide the place for the big conference.

F. M. Howell, General Passenger Agent of the Western Maryland Railroad while in town Sunday said he would be present at York, Wednesday to work with the local committee. Mr. Howell is in New York today attending a convention of railroad passenger agents and while here he will endeavor to persuade Edison J. Weeks, General Passenger Agent of the Philadelphia and Reading road to join him at York for Wednesday's conference. L. D. Mangor, Division Passenger Agent of this division of the Reading assured the local committee some time ago that he would be with them at the York meeting.

The most liberal subscription received so far has been that of J. A. Ring for the Hotel Gettysburg, who agreed to give two hundred and fifty dollars. Great credit is due to town people for the manner in which they "rose to the occasion" this time. It is a well known fact that raising money to secure a convention here is an uphill job. Members of the Church seem to be in general accord with the idea of coming to Gettysburg, and with the money in sight, the prospect appears very bright.

CHAUTAUQUA LOCATION CHANGED

It was decided late Monday afternoon by the board of directors of the Chautauqua to locate the big tent on the Crosta lot, Baltimore street, opposite the residence of Mrs. John Hughes. Arrangements had been made to occupy the lot owned by Charles Toot, off Baltimore street, in the rear of properties of Colonel E. B. Cope and Ferdinand Warner but this was considered inaccessible for the large crowds expected. A force of men was put to work this morning clearing up the Crosta lot and getting things in shape for the opening, Friday, August 18th.

MARS TO "VISIT" SATURN

E. E. Barnard, professor of astronomy at the Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wisconsin, announced that an interesting phenomenon will take place on Wednesday, August 16, when the two planets Saturn and Mars will be in conjunction.

"On that date," said Professor Barnard, "Mars will pass apparently close to Saturn. To the eye they will appear as a bright double star, the distance between the two being only 21 minutes of an arc, or about two thirds the apparent width of the moon."

THANKSGIVING NOV. 30

It is stated upon good authority that President Taft will designate Thursday, Nov. 30, as Thanksgiving Day this year. It has been the custom to fix the date on the last Thursday in November. This year there has been some question, as November happens to include five instead of four Thursdays.

The White House has been besieged by theatrical managers and those in charge of football games to settle the question, so that definite arrangements might be made for the special entertainments that mark the day.

FREE SAMPLE OF LAXATIVE CURED HIS CONSTIPATION

When a person has become discouraged through years of failure to find a cure, and finally, perhaps, gives up trying, it is small wonder that he becomes skeptical. And yet, to all who have constipation, we would say, "Try just one thing more."

We wish you would try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a laxative tonic that has been used for a generation. Thousands are using it; surely some of your friends among the number. You can buy it of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, but better still, send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. He will send you enough to convince you of its merits, and then if you like it you can buy it of your druggist. Mr. J. J. Petty of Unionville, Mo., Mr. George W. Zimmerman of Harrisburg, Pa., and many others of both sexes and in all parts of the country first used a sample bottle and now have it regularly in their house.

You will learn to do away with salts, waters and cathartics for these are but temporary reliefs while Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is guaranteed to cure permanently. It will train your stomach and bowel muscles so that they will do their work again naturally without outside aid. Cast aside your skepticism and try Syrup Pepsin.

GERAGHTY FAMILY FORGIVES ELOPERS

Expect Parental Blessings From Bride's Folks.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 15. — The parental blessings of the mother and father of the bridegroom were received by Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Paul Geraghty, who eloped from Newport last Wednesday.

Although the former Newport automobile demonstrator did not make public the letter he received from his parents, he intimated that it was perfectly satisfactory. Both Geraghty and his society bride said that they expected to receive in due time the good wishes of the latter's family.

A second marriage by a minister of the Episcopal faith is being considered by the eloping couple. Mrs. Geraghty is an Episcopalian, while her husband is of the Roman Catholic faith. No definite plans, however, have yet been made.

A smile played over the features of "Handsome Jack" when he admitted that he had stopped smoking at the solicitation of his bride. Mrs. Geraghty appeared greatly pleased as her husband made the admission.

The young couple passed a quiet day at the home of the bridegroom's relatives, with whom they have been staying since their secret marriage in Central Village, Conn. Both have been tired somewhat by the notoriety their elopement has caused, and their contemplated honeymoon through the Berkshire Hills was delayed another day.

ATWOOD FLIES 283 MILES

Aviator on Air Trip From St.

CHEERS GREET HIM IN CHICAGO

Is Given Special $500 Prize by Aviation
Enthusiasts and Carried From Field
by Great Throng.

Chicago, Aug. 15. — Harry N. Atwood, the aviator, landed in front of the judges' stand with his Burgess-Wright biplane, thereby completing the first leg of 283 miles in his record-breaking flight from St. Louis to New York in ten hours and fifteen minutes. He landed at Springfield and Pontiac, Ill., to replenish his gasoline.

Atwood left St. Louis amid the cheers of the thousands who had gathered at the aviation park to see the plucky airman make his start. After leaving St. Louis his flight was watched by hundreds of people to the different cities over which he passed in Illinois, and the aviator could hear the cheers of the watching thousands as he continued his flight to Chicago.

As Atwood approached the field the crowd cheered wildly. The aviator made a rapid descent towards the edge of the lake and sailed gracefully back of the score board. He turned to the north end of the field and was about to land in front of the judges, when he changed his mind and flew around the field again, accompanied by the other flyers. He landed in front of the judges' stand and was immediately surrounded by a cheering crowd who bore him from the field on their shoulders.

Although Atwood's flight was independent of the local meet, a special prize of $500 was awarded him for stopping in Chicago. He seemed to be in good condition after his long journey, and said the trip was the most interesting and successful he had ever made.

In his effort to establish a new record-breaking distance flight, stimulated by a prize offered by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Atwood made a singularly picturesque and dashing spectacle when he rose above St. Louis and swept across the Mississippi river and dwindled into a mere speck as he shot northward over the farm lands of Illinois.

This morning he again ascended and circled above Chicago before starting on his trip eastward to Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo and other smaller cities, and thence to New York, and finally Boston.

Atwood said he expected to complete the long aerial voyage in about ten days.

Atwood plans to fly over Elkhart, Ind.; Toledo, Cleveland and Ashtabula, O.; Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica and Albany, N. Y., and Boston, which will be his finishing point, according to announcement by his manager.

THE COUNTRY IS SAFE

Mr. Perkins is Going to Give All His
Time to Running It.

New York, Aug. 15. — George W. Perkins issued the following statement: "Newspaper editorials and numerous letters I have received seem to show a widespread interest in the country's immediate need of a constructive policy."

"Men in public life in Washington last week expressed the thought that perhaps the time had arrived to look broadly into the business questions before the country."

"The time would seem to be ripe for some sort of a national co-operative movement to develop, at least to some degree, the views of our people on the problems which confront us and their bearing upon wage earners, investors and consumers, as well as our domestic and foreign trade. How best to form such co-operative association is being made the subject of correspondence."

"I am so deeply interested in this and kindred questions that, in order to give to them even more time than I contemplated when I retired from the banking business last January, it is my intention, as soon as possible, to disassociate myself from still other of my business connections."

Seven Escape From Camden Jail.
Camden, N. J., Aug. 15. — Seven prisoners, who balked at the idea of sorting rubbish, escaped from the Camden jail at Federal street, near the Cooper river. Freedom was gained by sawing the iron bars of a large cell. Eight others who were confined with them refused to take advantage of the chance for liberty. The prisoners were all under sentences of terms of from ten to twenty days for minor offenses.

Leconte Elected President of Haiti.
Port au Prince, Haiti, Aug. 15. — General Leconte was elected president of Haiti unanimously by congress. Leconte headed the larger of the two revolutionary factions that overthrew President Antoine Simon.

M'CAB HAMPERED FOOD FLOOD PROSECUTIONS

Wiley's Assistant Assail His Auocratic Rule.

Washington, Aug. 15. — Restrictions placed upon officials of the bureau of chemistry by George P. McCabe, solicitor of the department of agriculture, on their talking with United States district attorneys, has greatly hampered work in district laboratories, where attorneys, prosecuting pure food cases, often seek expert advice, according to Dr. Bigelow, assistant chief of the bureau.

Dr. Bigelow again appeared as a witness before the house committee investigating the charges against Dr. Harvey W. Wiley and the Remsen pure food referee board.

Dr. Bigelow testified that the personnel committee, in charging that an arrangement had been entered into with Dr. H. H. Rusby whereby the latter was to work part of the time, but draw an annual salary, suppressed the correspondence showing that Dr. Bigelow was proceeding upon the precedent set by Secretary Wilson in appointing members of the referee board at salaries of $2000 each to work part of the time for the government.

No. 2. A truck farm opposite the Western Maryland Ry., adjoining lands of Walter Settle, Wm. O. A lake 150 feet wide and 400 feet in length and about 12 feet deep could be made from banks already there and springs flowing a barred of water every three seconds at a recent test would empty into the lake. This lake would be 115 feet above the level of Gettysburg. This acre will be sold with water rights upon condition that lake is constructed at an elevation so as not to include or do any damage to the springs feeding it located on other land of the undersigned. Mr. Stover, chief engineer of Philadelphia & Reading railroad visited this place in 1905 and located this piece of ground as specially suitable for a spring lake. No. 4 will be sold at the McKnightstown property. Sale to begin at 1 o'clock when terms will be made known by W. E. DUTTERA.

MOB LEADERS FACE ARREST

Authorities Learn Names of Many Lynchers.

STATE POLICE AT SCENE

District Attorney Says Firemen Were
Among Rioters and He Has Evidence Against Thirty.

Cotatesville, Pa., Aug. 15.—The leaders of the mob which burned Zachariah S. Walker, the colored murderer of Edgar Rice, of the North Brothers' police force, on a pile of fence rails and posts on the farm of John Newman, a mile and a half from here, are known to District Attorney Gawthrop, and thirty arrests are expected within the next twenty-four hours.

Nineteen men of the Pottsville troop of state police reached Cotatesville. The sheriff of Chester county called the attention of the state authorities to the situation, and Governor Tener directed that the state send men to the city.

Firemen the Alleged Leaders.

District Attorney Gawthrop, Sheriff Golder, Chief of Police R. O. Jefferis, of West Chester, who is also county detective of Chester county; Assistant District Attorney Sprout and detectives employed by the county started an investigation of the lynching. Mr. Gawthrop announced that he had heard the testimony of a hundred persons, and would be prepared to make arrests soon. He claims to have obtained evidence against thirty leaders of the mob.

Most of these thirty men are members of the Brandywine Fire company, of which Policeman Rice was a member, the chief of police of one of the big iron plants and a few men from Tennessee who have been working in the Cotatesville manufacturing plant which Rice watched as a special officer.

The district attorney declares that all he is waiting for is complete evidence against the men who led the mob. He declares that he does not want to make a mistake, nor does he want to rush into a case of so great importance without having sufficient evidence to assure the success of the prosecution.

Break In Borough Council.

The lynching has caused a break in the borough council, which reached a climax in a special meeting. Richard D. Glinney, chairman of the police committee of council, openly accused Chief of Police C. E. Umstead and the entire borough police force of negligence of duty or cowardice, and declared that he would make an effort to bring about an investigation of the refusal of the Cotatesville police force to respond to his request that special men be deputized and hurried to the Cotatesville hospital to protect Walker, who lay in the hospital suffering from a gunshot wound through the head, which he inflicted when he found that capture was inevitable.

There is much feeling in Cotatesville against Chief of Police Umstead, and an effort to oust him from office is threatened.

Throughout the day the little city of 12,000 people was on the quiver. More farmers drove in than usual. Here and there in the midst of a small crowd a man drew from his pocket a little charred particle and exhibited it as the prized souvenir of the night before.

On the road leading out to the scene of the tragedy an aged farmer, well dressed and apparently prosperous, who was caught in the drift of the excitement, showed a perfectly white piece of bone—a bone which had been burned just enough to bleach it. Examination of the body of the lynched colored man, which was put into a ten-pound meat box, showed where the bone had been sawed from the hipbone, still clinging to the charred trunk.

Widow Wanted to Light Pyre.

Mrs. Annie Rice, widow of the murdered policeman, declared that Walker, his colored slayer, had got just what he deserved. Her only regret seemed to be that she had not been permitted to light the pyre on which the man met his death.

"He got just what he deserved," she said in speaking about the tragic death of her husband and of the lynching.

"Oh, if they had only permitted me to accompany them," said Mrs. Rice. "I wanted to apply the match. I wanted to see him burn. He killed my husband; he took the life of the best man and the kindest father who ever lived. It is terrible for me to say that I am glad Walker is dead, but I must speak as I feel."

"I knew nothing of the lynching until I heard the crowd pass my house. It sounded like a great roar, and then I knew that trouble was brewing. I did not recognize anyone, but they held me in the house and would not permit me to join them. I begged to be allowed to go along, but they said: 'No, Mrs. Rice, you stay here.'"

"I heard the noise as the crowd took him from the hospital. I was willing to set him on fire. I would have done anything to have got near him, but they would not let me. After it was all over they told me about it and then I was satisfied that the death of my husband had been avenged."

DYING AFTER BIG DROP

Atlantic City, Aug. 15.—Charles Bennett, of Newark, who, after a perilous drop of 1500 feet with a double parachute, fell through the diningroom skylight of the Marlborough-Blenheim, is dying in the City hospital.

When he plunged through the glass the diners at the tables were seized with a panic. He was picked up with a fractured skull and cut in a shocking manner.

Bennett, who had ascended from the Million Dollar pier, shot up in the air to an altitude estimated at 1500 feet. Then he executed a double parachute drop that thrilled the thousands along the boardwalk and beach.

When he first cut loose from the balloon he shot down several hundred feet before the umbrella shaped canvas on which he staked his life opened. When half way to earth he unloosed a second parachute and again seemed to be plunging to his death.

When he was about 500 feet from the boardwalk the parachute opened, but he was in danger from the strong air currents.

By daring twists of his body Bennett managed to swing the parachute around the Hotel Traymore towers, but a current of air sweeping downward caught him unprepared and he was thrown directly on top of the glass roof of the Marlborough-Blenheim. The impact carried him through the glass and he landed on tables in the room below.

BEATTIE INDICTED AS WIFE MURDERER

True Bill Promptly Returned
Against Him.

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Aug. 15.—A true bill charging murder in the first degree was returned by the grand jury of the Chesterfield circuit court against Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., of Richmond.

He will be tried for his life on Aug. 21 as the alleged murderer of his young wife, the victim of the Midlothian turnpike tragedy of July 18 last. An indictment charging murder in the first degree was in the hands of the clerk when the grand jurors arrived. Only five witnesses were on hand to be heard. Beattie was kept in jail at Richmond.

Four of the witnesses were Thomas E. Owen, uncle of Mrs. Beattie, to whose home Beattie took the body with his tale of a mysterious man firing into his automobile from the roadway; E. P. Pettigrew, called to testify as to the finding of the shotgun with which the crime was committed; Dr. Wilbur Mercer, who was at Owen's when Beattie drove up with the body, and Paul Beattie, a cousin of the defendant.

Beniah Binford, the girl for love of whom the prosecution will charge that Beattie killed his wife, was brought from the jail in Richmond to testify.

THE POPE IMPROVING

His Appetite is Better and He Seems Much Less Morose.

Rome, Aug. 15.—It was announced that the pope was still improving, and that while the doctors would continue to visit him twice a day for some time to come, it would be merely as a precautionary measure.

The pontiff's appetite is much better and he seemed much less morose than he has been for several days. So much stronger was he that he received Cardinal Merry del Val and Monsignors Canali and Scalpignelli.

The usual quiet of the Vatican was disturbed by a loud explosion, and at first it was thought that a bomb had been set off. Investigation showed that the report was due to the bursting of a gas pipe caused by the carelessness of a cleaner.

MEAT HIGHEST OF SEASON

Prices Boosted to Top Record in New York and Retailers Lose Trade.

New York, Aug. 15.—The prices of meats reached a new high record for the season here, with an advance, according to dealers, that boosted the prices four cents above those prevailing a fortnight ago.

The retail dealers report a heavy falling off in trade, due, they say, to the high prices. Many butchers declare they have to get six cents a pound above the prices of two weeks ago or lose money.

The present advance was from 75 cents to $1.50 per hundred pounds, according to grade. Another raise next Wednesday is anticipated.

Cholera Suspected Steamer Held.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 15.—The Dominion health office has been advised that the steamer Lake Erie is detained at the quarantine station at Grosse Isle, off Quebec, with a number of cases of what is supposed to be Asiatic cholera. The German steamer Wiltkind, on which smallpox has developed, is also detained at the quarantine station.

Killed by Bee Sting.

Unity, N. H., Aug. 15.—The sting of a bee proved fatal to George F. Putney, of this town, who was stung while gathering blueberries. He died before he could get home.

HOUSE ACCEPTS WOOL BILL

Goes Through by Vote of

ENOUGH TO PASS OVER VETO

Thirty Republicans Joined Democrats
In Voting For Compromise Measure.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The conference report on the Underwood-LaFollette wool bill was agreed to by the house of representatives. The vote was 206 to 90.

Thirty Republicans and Representative Aiken, of New York, the politically unclassified member, voted with the Democrats for the report.

Immediately after the conference report had been called up in the house by Representative Underwood, Representative Mann, the minority floor leader, made a point of order against it on the ground that the conference committee had no right to fix in some cases higher rates in their agreement than were contained either in the house or senate bills. Some surprise was expressed that Mr. Mann should have presented this objection, in view of his admitted familiarity with parliamentary precedents, as Speaker Clark was able, without much trouble, to dig up precedents from the rulings of Speaker Schuyler Colfax, John G. Carlisle, David B. Henderson and Joseph G. Cannon that made it a simple matter for him to overrule the Mann point of order.

There being something of a row between the two sides of the house over the time allowance for debate, Mr. Underwood cut the knot by moving the previous question. During the forty minutes allowed for debate on the conference reports Representative Payne, of New York, author of the tariff bill now on the statute books, and Majority Leader Underwood were the principal speakers.

Mr. Payne denounced the Underwood-LaFollette wool measure as "a mongrel," and referred to the open session of the conference committee.

Mr. Underwood, following Mr. Payne, declared that if the conference bill became a law, instead of a loss of revenue, there would be an increase of nearly 10 per cent. He added that he hoped President Taft would have patriotism enough to sign the Underwood-LaFollette measure.

"I say," he declared, "we can well afford to pass this bill and send it to the president in order that we may get some relief, even if it does not entirely express our views on this question."

Then the debate was closed and the bill passed. It was a matter of comment that the vote—206 to 90—was more than sufficient to pass the bill over the veto of the president so far as the house is concerned.

ENDS LIFE ON WIFE'S GRAVE

Phoenixville, Pa., Aug. 15.—Stretched across the grave of his wife, the body of Charles Iskey was found fifteen hours after the grief-stricken man had sent a bullet through his heart, causing instant death.

His suicide is attributed to his great grief since his wife died last March. The man, who lived in Phoenixville for several years, was a daily visitor to his wife's grave in Morris cemetery, and when he entered the cemetery gate no attention was paid to him.

A short time later the report of a revolver was heard, but the caretaker attached no significance to that. As Michael McMenamin was passing along the street he noticed the form on the grave.

Withholds Veto Message on Statehood

Washington, Aug. 15.—President Taft's veto message on the statehood bill was not sent to congress. A decision to this effect was reached during a special cabinet meeting, which lasted more than two hours. The message will probably remain at the White House until the president's return from Ocean Grove, N. J., on Wednesday.

Jersey Central Raises Firemen's Pay.

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 15.—Several hundred firemen on the New Jersey Central railroad were surprised to find posted at the various round houses notices of an advance in wages. The firemen are divided into three classes. Class 1 will now get $3.25 a day; class 2, $2.80, and class 3, $2.65. Ten hours will constitute a day's work.

School Payments Begin Today.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 15.—Payment of appropriations to school districts under the appropriation act of 1911 began at the state treasury today, when warrants for about $37,000 were issued to twenty-five districts. Other districts will be paid at the rate of twenty-five and fifty a day.

Fidal Wave Drowns 500 Japanese.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 15.—More than 500 lives were lost and great devastation ashore and abroad resulted from a typhoon and tidal wave which swept over Japan on July 26, according to advices brought here by the steamer Empress of Japan.

FINDS CHEAP CANDY PURE

The cheaper grades of candies, the goods generally sold at 'a penny a piece' show an almost clean bill of health as a result of the analyses and tests made by chemists of the State Dairy and Food Division. Under direction of Commissioner James Foust 253 samples were taken in 60 cities and boroughs in April and May. Neighborhoods of schools and factories were visited by the agents and candies of all sorts and varieties and under all sorts of names were taken.

These samples were placed in the hands of Charles LaWall, one of the division chemists, who is an authority on foods, especially confectionery, and his preliminary adulterants as benzoic acid, sulphur dioxide, talc, terra alba, salicylic acid, saccharin and other products. Only four of the samples chosen showed the presence of foreign and prohibited substances and three of them had talc coatings.

This showing, says Commissioner Foust, is the best made yet and is in marked contrast to the results of the tests made last spring in Philadelphia when 50 per cent. of the samples of cheap candies gathered by Agent Cassidy revealed use of adulterants.

"I attribute this excellent showing to the interest taken in manufacture of pure goods by the associated candy manufacturers of Pennsylvania," said Commissioner Foust today.

Reading For the Sick.

"And now a word about patients who may feel like reading," said the house physician to the nurse. "When they ask for something to read be sure to give them continued stories—always continued stories."

"Is that wise?" she ventured to remonstrate. "Won't the excitement over what is going to happen in the next number have a bad effect?"

"No. Even if it does it will be counteracted by the encouragement. Sick people have queer fancies. One of the queerest pertains to literature. Feed a patient's mind with nothing but short stories and he will certainly get into his head that he is going to die so soon that it isn't worth while to start him on a long one, and he will drop accordingly. But give him only yarns of the to-be-continued-in-our-next variety and he will take it for granted that you expect him to get well so he can finish the story, and he will perk up amazingly. Just try it."

The nurse did try it and found that the doctor's theory was built on a sure foundation.—New York Times.

Lion Signs in England.

In the middle ages the country houses of the nobility in England when the owners were absent were used as hostels for travelers. The family arms always hung in front of the house and gave it a popular name among travelers, who called a lion "gules" or azure simply "red" or "blue." As these mere intimations of good cheer and entertainment inkeepers adopted the idea. Lions have always been and are now very favorite signs in England—lions white, black, red, brown, golden, yellow—red being the most common. Probably the Red Lion originated with the badge of John of Gaunt, duke of Lancaster, who married the daughter of Don Pedro, king of Leon and Castile, and who adopted the lion rampant of Leon to represent his claim to the throne. Under Richard and John lions became the settled arms of England and were generally used by those who could find any claim.

Customs Officials' Manners.

"German officials stare at you; French officials scowl at you; English officials wink at you. But they all pass the baggage," is the conclusion of Gilbert K. Chesterton, the English writer, who has recently added to his experience by passing through the custom houses of France, Germany and England, which he describes in the Illustrated London News. Noise, confusion and clamor prevailed in the French douane, which was located in a small, dirty, shed-like room. The French temperament is soothed by disturbance, he explains, and the customs official's bustling manner does not mean that he takes his duty very seriously, for one gets through quickly and unharmed. French officials are not as brutal as they seem. German custom houses impressed Mr. Chesterton as temple-like. The imposing officials in uniforms of aesthetic peacock green held his observant gaze. Grim and silent, they passed him from one large apartment to another. But it only seemed like oppression, decides the tolerant traveler forward. His native land received him at Dover in a manner "confidential and comic."

FELL AMONG THIEVES.

And the Old Man Didn't Know Which Set Was the Worst.

An old man from rural England with his wife was on a holiday in London and decided on an evening at a theater. He looked up the advertisements in the papers and selected a house where "All Baba and the Forty Thieves" was being played. It was a "cheap" house, the price of stalls being given as two-and-sixpence. The farmer was surprised, however, on arriving at the box office to be met with a demand for 6 shillings for the two tickets. The extra sixpence per seat, it was explained, was for booking. Then he was called upon to pay sixpence for a program, and the female attendant who showed him to the seats also asked for sixpence. In addition to which there was a shilling to be paid for hats and coats being taken care of in spite of his protest that they could take care of them themselves. A footstool was brought for his wife and was accepted without suspicion that it would be charged for, but the attendant who brought it demanded another sixpence, and finally opera glasses were handed to them and payment of another sixpence requested. Then the farmer went in search of the manager and, finding him, said in a tone of deepest disgust: "You may do what you like with these tickets. There are so many thieves in front of the house that we don't think we want to see the forty on the stage!"—London Answers.

THUNDERSTORMS.

They Kill Over 300 Persons a Year in Madagascar.

Thunderstorms never occur in the arctic regions, and even the north of Scotland very seldom suffers from such a visitation. The nearer you get to the equator the more frequent and severe are the electric manifestations. In parts of Central Africa the average of thunderous days rises to the astonishing total of 250 per annum.

Yet there are curious exceptions. In Java and Sumatra, both intensely hot climates, there are but ninety-two storms yearly, and in Borneo only fifty.

The Gold coast of Africa has only sixty a year, which is less than occur in Florida, though the latter country is outside the tropics.

In Jamaica there is a thunderstorm every day during the rainy season, which lasts for five months. These storms almost always occur between midday and 3 in the afternoon.

Perhaps the most astonishing fact with regard to thunderstorms is that the island of Mauritius, which is only 550 miles east of Madagascar, has, on an average, only one thunderstorm in eighty years. Yet in Madagascar the lightning is more destructive than anywhere else in the world, the annual death toll being over 300.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Souvenir From the Dead

By EDWARD BUCKMAN

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

I am one of the old maids who became such by the civil war. An old woman with no hair on my head save what is white as snow, I have passed half a century alone, yet not alone, for once I have seen him.

He was killed in one of the battles around Richmond during McClellan's advance upon that city. A year before he had marched away with the soldier boys of '61—how young they seem to have been now and how strange that those who live are becoming tottering old men and that the boys' mothers and the girls who loved them could send them out to die—he had gone down into Virginia, carrying my heart with him. He had fallen and been thrown into a trench, and then for the first time I wondered that I could have consented to his going.

No one has ever taken his place. I have lived as though we were one, he in the heavenly, I in the earthly sphere. For many years I wished to go down to Virginia and visit the spot where he died, and yet I dreaded to do so. It was not till the beginning of this century that I could make up my mind to do so.

I went to Richmond and visited the residence of the president of the Confederacy, which is now a museum. There I saw the arms and uniforms of Confederate heroes. But what took me nearer to the conflict of years before was a southern lady who told me how when a girl she had listened to the distant booming, gaining hope when it receded and losing courage when it drew nearer. From there I went to the battlefield.

I went alone. The battle in which he was taken from me is called Seven Pines. Why it is called Seven Pines I know not. There are thousands of pines there now, but I believe they have all grown up since the battle. It was fought in a cornfield. But it has not been tilled since that day in 1862, and the trees have had ample time to grow.

I found a long line of low earthworks that was thrown up by McClellan's army, behind which to resist the Confederates hurried against it by General Lee. Forty years had passed over these works, during which the pines had grown up as if to shield the dead and the trenches beneath them, in which so many soldiers' bodies were thrown. Walking on the line of earthworks, every now and again I came to a redoubt, where stood cannon, and there beneath were the ruts made by the gun carriages.

Before going on to the field I had been told that I should have a guide. I declined to take one or to go with a party who were conducted by one. I went alone. It was late in the afternoon, and most of the visitors were coming away. It seemed to me a sacrilege to listen to the story from a human voice told so eloquently by those intrenchments, the rises here and there in the ground over the dead, the waving pines, which with every breeze sighed a requiem. And I wished to be where my boy lover had fallen, without any one to jar upon me.

So I lingered till far upon one else had gone, sitting alone on the rampart, looking out upon the trees that obstructed further view. They were not there on that terrible day of '62. As I looked they seemed to dissolve and their place to be taken by waving grain. I saw a long brown line advancing, heard the word of command among them and the louder word of those preparing to resist them.

Whether a change that came over me was in the day or in the night, whether it was in me or in my surroundings, whether I saw what I seemed to see or it was a half-conscious dream, I know not. But I was back in '62, and it seemed as if the writh of heaven had come upon the earth.

The thunder ceased. The light was from scattered campfires. The sounds were the chatting of burial parties and the falling clouds, with occasional volleys fired over the dead.

Suddenly I felt a touch on my shoulder. I looked up, and there was my soldier lover. Could this be he whom I had looked upon as a man? Why, he was but a boy—not a sign of a beard on his face. It was round and full, while in my head were many gray hairs and my face was wrinkled. One moment he stood looking down at me. I reached out for his hand, but before I could clasp it he had faded away.

When I came to myself the morning sun was shining down through the pines. I was lying on my back on the rampart, looking up at a patch of sky between the branches. It was blue and beautiful, with scattered white clouds sailing peacefully over it.

I was filled with consternation at having passed a night out on that battlefield of forty years ago. I raised myself with difficulty. My eye caught something mingling with the earth. It was a worn silver ten cent piece. I took it up, rubbed the dirt from it and on it traced with difficulty three letters—M. E. L.

I had forgotten that the night before he marched I had given him a new ten cent piece on which he had scratched my initials.

Is it anything to me whether or no my story is believed, whether I dreamed, whether where so many souvenirs of soldiers have been picked up it is to be wondered that I should have found one with my initials on it? In my own mind there is no doubt.

RUNK & PECKMAN'S REALTY REPORT

This is an age of experts in which the inexperienced is at a great disadvantage. If you require medical attention you should have the best doctor. If an operation is necessary to prolong life you should have the most skillful surgeon to use the knife. If you have a case at law you should have a lawyer, not a pettifogger. If you employ someone to sell your property he should be a practical salesman, one thoroughly posted in values. It does not matter how much money he makes because he knows how to close deals, he should be both financially and morally responsible for your money which he handles. When you buy you want a good deed and a clear title. The guarantee of a responsible real estate dealer is worth something. In the future if you conclude that you better re-sell because you are unable to make the required payments, you should have a dealer who can and will help you in times of need. The dealer who makes a success for himself will make a success for you.
